Art Unit: 1797

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1 – 3, 5 – 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claimed subject matter is directed to a “natural raw material.” A “natural raw material” is a material that is found in nature and not processed, altered, refined, or otherwise transformed by man. Accordingly, it is a material that is neither a “manufacture” nor a “new . . . composition.”

Claims 1 – 3, 5 - 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claimed subject matter ostensibly is directed to a “natural raw material,” i.e., a material that is neither processed, altered, refined, nor otherwise transformed by man. Independent claim 1, however, recites the phrase “before it is processed.” It is unclear whether the claimed material is processed, or merely capable of having a lower solubility upon being processed in some unspecified and non-limiting manner. If the claimed material is processed such that it possesses the recited “lower solubility” property, then it is unclear how such processed material is “natural” and “raw.”
